

Studying various methods that can be used to distinguish vertices in a graph is a research area in graph theory that has increased in popularity during the past few decades. Many of these methods involve graph colorings. In this talk, some of such colorings and related concepts are discussed.